4.2.1 Library is automated using Integrated Library Management System (ILMS)

The Rizvi Law College is an essential component of the teaching program and curriculum, the library plays a crucial role in raising the standard of the academic and research environment at the college.

The public library was founded during the academic year 2018-2019. It has a large library of law books, periodicals, and AIR journals. The library currently has 2072 books (textbooks and reference books) and 15 BCI approved journals.

The library is completely automated. The library subscribes to a legal e-journal and keeps AIR Manuals on hand for students. The library has a total area of 73 square meters. The library features bookshelves, a reading area, a conversation area, and a reference section.

Within the budget constraints, the library purchases the most recent reading materials (books/journals/E-resources) recommended by the Library Advisory Committee (LAC), teachers, and students. The library offers a reference service, as well as Wi-Fi.

Internet, online access to syllabus/question papers, and book recommendation service to its consumers based on their needs. Our library is open from 08:00 a.m. To 04:00 p.m.
Infrastructure for Libraries.

The library is located on the fourth level of the college building and is known as the knowledge centre. It is an E- resources canter with internet access for their study and research work. It is also air-conditioned and has Wi-Fi and charging connections.

Automation:

This library management software provides a complete library automation solution. It was created by the Library and Information Services Division, the National Informatics Centre, and the Department of Information.

Government of India, Ministry of Communications and Information Technology, and New Delhi. The software runs in client/server mode on the Windows platform. The infrastructure requirements for using the software (hardware, operating system, database management software, internet access, and so on) are specified. MS SQL Server (any edition) is used as the backend database software in E-Granthalaya 3.0, and VB.NET/ASP.NET 2.0 is used as the frontend solution.

SQL Server Express is included free with the E - Granthalaya program.

The library employs the following modules:

Acquisition- The library employs the acquisition module to acquire library materials and enter bill details.

Serials- The Serials module is used to manage magazines.

Cataloguing- The cataloguing module is used by the library to enter books, text books, reference books, and so on.

Circulation- The circulation module is used by the library to issue and return library materials to patrons.

Report- The library uses the report module to generate reports. Additionally, it has an OPAC (Online Public Access Catalogue) available for students to search for library materials.

E-Library- The HEI library also features a dedicated research centre with Two PCs and high-speed internet access for students, teachers, and researchers. This is because it offers specialized course E-Databases.

The E-Resources-

The E-Resources are free of charge E-Jamal's and E-Magazines E-books, audio, photos, encyclopaedias, and newspapers are all available for free. Subscription to E-Resources We have purchased eBooks with remote access for students and faculty, and as a result, our library contains various e-resources, ranging from countless downloaded eBooks to numerous E-journals. We give many such links to our students and teachers for e-resources, so we do not see the necessity for paid services for e-resource subscriptions at this time.
